10519958DETAILED ACTION

Response to Amendment

1. Amendments to the claims were filed on January 7, 2009. Claims 1-4 are currently amended, claims 5-6 are cancelled, and claim 7 is newly presented.

Response to Arguments

2. Applicant's revision of the title of the invention, see page 6, filed January 7, 2009, has been fully considered. The objection of the title of the invention has been withdrawn.
3. Applicant's arguments with respect to claims 1-4 have been considered but are moot in view of the new ground(s) of rejection.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

The text of those sections of Title 35, U.S. Code not included in this action can be found in a prior Office action.

4. Claims 1-4 and 7 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as over (US 6559883) hereinafter referred to as Fancher in view of (US 20040046871) hereinafter referred to as Ichikawa.

- a. Claim 1 Fancher discloses "A recording control system for controlling recording of a recording object in a recording medium [Fancher item "video camera"] with a recording apparatus, wherein a surplus signal [Fancher item (IR)] that is outside the recognizable range of a person but within the recording sensitivity range of said recording apparatus is applied to the recording object [Fancher item 150], and the recording object affected by said surplus signal is recorded on said recording medium, the recording control system comprising surplus signal generation means [Fancher item 130] for generating said surplus signal and irradiating said surplus signal to said recording object; surplus signal generation control means [Fancher item 120] for controlling the generation of the surplus signal and the suspension thereof; [Fancher Column 4; lines 33-67 and Figure 1.]”

- i. Fancher fails to disclose “ID transmission means for transmitting an ID assigned to said recording apparatus or to a person; and ID recognition means; wherein, when a specific ID is recognized, said control means suspends the generation of said surplus signal for a prescribed period of time.”
- ii. Ichikawa discloses a photographing apparatus which restrains one from imaging in any area where imaging is prohibited. Ichikawa discloses the concept of a image recording device having an ID associated with the device and the enabling of the device to record an image after the system, having received the ID information, recognizes that the device has the authorization to record the image, which reads on “ID transmission means (item 113) for transmitting an ID assigned to said recording apparatus or to a person; ID recognition means (item 101); wherein, when a specific ID is recognized, said control means suspends the generation of said surplus signal for a prescribed period of time. [Ichikawa ¶0087 to ¶0091]”

iii. Therefore, it would have been obvious to one of ordinary skill in the art at the time the invention was made to modify Fancher by providing “ID transmission means for transmitting an ID assigned to said recording apparatus or to a person; ID recognition means; wherein, when a specific ID is recognized, said control means suspends the generation of said surplus signal for a prescribed period of time,” as disclosed by Ichikawa for the purpose of limiting imaging capabilities for copyright protection.

b. Claim 2 Fancher discloses “said recoding apparatus is imaging means for recording a photographic image on a recording medium [Fancher item “video camera”]; said surplus signal is barely visible light outside the recognizable range of a person [Fancher item (IR)]; and said barely visible light is contained within the recordable sensitivity range of said recording medium [Fancher item 110].”

[Fancher Column 4; lines 33-67]

c. Claim 3 Fancher discloses “A system according to claim 2, wherein said barely visible light is infrared light.” [Fancher Column 3; lines 33-67 item 120]

d. Claim 4 Fancher discloses “A system according to claim 2, wherein said barely visible light is directed onto a photographic object together with or separate from illuminating light and wherein the reflected image of said photographic object is recorded on said recording medium.” [Fancher Column 4; lines 33-67]

e. Claim 7 Fancher fails to disclose “said ID transmission means is provided in said recording apparatus or a portable communication terminal.”

i. Ichikawa discloses a portable terminal equipped with imaging apparatus. Ichikawa discloses “ID transmission means is provided in said recording apparatus or a portable communication terminal.” [Ichikawa ¶0088]

ii. Therefore, it would have been obvious to one of ordinary skill in the art at the time the invention was made to modify Fancher by providing “ID transmission means is provided in said recording apparatus or a portable communication terminal” as disclosed by Ichikawa for the purpose of limiting imaging capabilities for copyright protection.
[Ichikawa ¶0026 and ¶0004]

Conclusion

Applicant's amendment necessitated the new ground(s) of rejection presented in this Office action. Accordingly, THIS ACTION IS MADE FINAL. See MPEP § 706.07(a). Applicant is reminded of the extension of time policy as set forth in 37 CFR 1.136(a).

A shortened statutory period for reply to this final action is set to expire THREE MONTHS from the mailing date of this action. In the event a first reply is filed within TWO MONTHS of the mailing date of this final action and the advisory action is not mailed until after the end of the THREE-MONTH shortened statutory period, then the shortened statutory period will expire on the date the advisory action is mailed, and any extension fee pursuant to 37 CFR 1.136(a) will be calculated from the mailing date of the advisory action. In no event, however, will the statutory period for reply expire later than SIX MONTHS from the date of this final action.
